ABSTRACT

This paper analyzes the various challenges of the present business scenario which are emerging in the field of HRM. The managers today face a whole new array of changes, like globalization, workforce diversity, cultural backgrounds, technological advances and changes in political and legal environment. Changes in information technology in multinational corporations. This has lead to a paradigm shift in the roles of professional personnel. The great challenge of HRM is to attract, retain and nurture talented employees. This paper also analyzes how to overcome these challenges. These challenges can be overcome through cross cultural training, technological and informational training of HR people and motivation of employees through various techniques.

KEYWORDS: Multinational Corporations, Globalization, Workforce Diversity, HR Managers, Global Firm

INTRODUCTION

Successful management of today’s global firms demands an altogether different mindset, which is sensitive to the cultural differences that exist among nations. For any global firm, there is no single product that satisfies all customers across the nations, or a single way of motivating the workforce that will work in all nations, or a single style of negotiation that works well with all stakeholders. Or a single way of running the business that is ethical as well as legally acceptable in all countries. The most important factor that challenges today’s global firms is the cultural differences among nations. (1)

HR managers are facing many challenges in the present business scenario like globalization, workforce diversity, technological advances and changes in political and legal environment, change in information technology. All these challenges increase the pressure on HR managers to attract, retain and nurture talented employees. HR professional can’t ignore these challenges rather they ought to be lined to design and execute innovative mechanisms of developing skills and competencies of human resources to prepare them to accept the emerging challenges.

The role of the Human Resource Manager is evolving with the change in competitive market environment and the realization that Human Resource Management must play a more strategic role in the success of an organization. Organizations that do not put their emphasis on attracting and retaining talents may find themselves in dire consequences, as their competitors may be outplaying them in the strategic employment of their human resources.

With the increase in competition, locally or globally, organizations must become more adaptable, resilient, agile, and customer-focused to succeed. And within this change in the environment, the HR professional has to evolve to become a strategic partner, an employee sponsor or advocate, and a change mentor within the organization. In order to succeed, HR must be a business driven function with a thorough understanding of the organization’s big picture and be able to influence key decisions and policies. In general, the focus of today’s HR Manager is on strategic personnel retention and talent development. HR professionals will be coaches, counselors, mentors, and succession planners to help motivate organization’s members and their loyalty. The HR manager will also promote and fight for values, ethics, beliefs, and spirituality within their organizations, especially in the management of workplace diversity.

THE PROBLEM

This paper analysis the various challenges which are emerging in the field of HRM. The managers today face a whole new array of changes Like globalization, technological advances and changes in political and legal environment. Changes in Information technology. This has led to a Paradigm shift in the of roles professional personnel. The great challenge of HRM is to attract, retain and nurture talented employees. This paper also Analysis how to overcome with these challenges. These challenges can overcome through cross cultural training, technological and informational training of HR people and motivation of employees through various techniques.

OBJECTIVE OF PAPER

To study the details of emerging challenges to find out the various methods and techniques through which HR can overcome the challenges of present business scenario.

METHODOLOGY

The analysis of this paper totally depends upon secondary data like journal, books and various websites from the internet.

CHALLENGES TO HR IN MODERN Management Globalization:-

At a political and economic level, globalization is the process of denationalization of markets, politics and legal systems i.e. the use of the so-called global economy. Globalization refers to an extension beyond national borders of the same market forces that have operated for centuries at all levels of human economic activity (village, markets, urban industries, or financial centers).

It means that world trade and financial markets are becoming more integrated. Growing internationalization of business has its impact on HRM in terms of problems of unfamiliar laws, languages, practices, competitions, attitudes, management styles, work ethics etc. HR managers have a challenge to deal with more functions, more heterogeneous functions and more involvement in employee’s personal life. (2)

Workforce Diversity:-

According to Thomas (1992), dimensions of workplace diversity include, but are not limited to age, ethnicity ancestry, gender, physical abilities/qualities, race, sexual orientation, educational background, geographic location, income, marital status, military experience, religious beliefs, parental status, and work experience.

The future success of any organizations relies on the ability to manage a diverse body of talent that can bring innovative ideas, perspectives and views to their work. The challenge and problems faced of workplace diversity can be turned into a strategic organizational asset if an organization is able to capitalize on this melting pot of diverse talents. With the mixture of talents of diverse cultural backgrounds, genders, ages and lifestyles, an organization can respond to business opportunities more rapidly and creatively, especially in the global arena, which must be one of the important organizational goals to be attained. More importantly, if the organizational environment does not support diversity broadly, one risks losing talent to competitors. This is especially true for multinational companies (MNCs) who have operations on a global scale and employ people of different countries, ethnic and

Cultural backgrounds:-

Thus, a HR manager needs to be mindful and may employ a Think Global, Act Local approach in most circumstances. With a population of only four million people and the nations strive towards high technology and knowledge-based economy; foreign talents are lured to share their expertise in these areas. Thus, many local HR managers have to undergo cultural-based Human Resource Management training to further their abilities to motivate a group of professional that are highly qualified but culturally diverse. Furthermore, the HR professional must assure the local professionals that these foreign talents are not a threat to their career advancement.

In many ways, the effectiveness of workplace diversity management is dependent on the skill full balancing act of the HR manager. (3)

Technological advances:-

There is a challenging task of adapting workplace to rapid technological changes which influence the nature of work and generate obsolescence. Advanced technology has tended to reduce the number of jobs that require little skill and to increase the number of jobs that require considerable skill, a shift we refer to as moving from touch labor to knowledge work. There is new-new working technology. In this situation organizations have to change it technology. New technology creates unemployment and in other hand, there comes scarcity of skilled manpower. Like this, technological change brings difficulties and challenges in organization.

CHANGES IN POLITICAL AND LEGAL ENVIRONMENT

Changes in political and legal environment means changes in political parties and rules regulation due to which new laws are come and you have to follow all laws while doing.

This paper will highlight on how a HR manager can meet the challenges of workplace diversity, how to motivate employees through gain-sharing and executive information system through proper planning, organizing, leading and controlling their human resources.

THE CHALLENGES OF WORKPLACE DIVERSITY

The future success of any organizations relies on the ability to manage a diverse body of talent that can bring innovative ideas, perspectives and views to their work. The challenge and problems faced of workplace diversity can be turned into a strategic organizational asset if an organization is able to capitalize on this melting pot of diverse talents. With the mixture of talents of diverse cultural backgrounds, genders, ages and lifestyles, an organization can respond to business opportunities more rapidly and creatively, especially in the global arena (Cox, 1993), which must be one of the important organizational goals to be attained. More importantly, if the organizational environment does not support diversity broadly, one risks losing talent to competitors. (4)

This is especially true for multinational companies (MNCs) who have operations on a global scale and employ people of different countries, ethical and cultural backgrounds. Thus, a HR manager needs to be mindful and may employ a ‘Think Global, Act Local’ approach in most circumstances. The challenge of workplace diversity is also prevalent amongst Singapore’s Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs). With a population of only four million people and the nation’s strive towards high technology and knowledge-based economy; foreign talents are lured to share their expertise in these areas. Thus, many local HR managers have to undergo cultural-based Human Resource Management training to further their abilities to motivate a group of professional that are highly qualified but culturally diverse. Furthermore, the HR professional must assure the local professionals that these foreign talents are not a threat to their career advancement (Toh, 1993). In many ways, the effectiveness of workplace diversity management is dependent on the skilful balancing act of the HR manager.

One of the main reasons for ineffective workplace diversity management is the predisposition to pigeonhole employees, placing them in a different silo based on their diversity profile (Thomas, 1992). In the real world, diversity cannot be easily categorized and those organizations that respond to human complexity by leveraging the talents of a broad workforce will be the most effective in growing their businesses and their customer base.(5)

The Management of Workplace Diversity:-

In order to effectively manage workplace diversity, Cox (1993) suggests that a HR Manager needs to change from an ethnocentric view (“our way is the best way”) to a culturally relative perspective (“let’s take the best of a variety of ways”). This shift in philosophy has to be ingrained in the managerial framework of the HR Manager in his/her planning, organizing, leading and controlling of organizational resources.

As suggested by Thomas (1992) and Cox (1993), there are several best practices that a HR manager can adopt in ensuring effective management of workplace diversity in order to attain organizational goals. They are:

Planning a Mentoring Program:-

One of the best ways to handle workplace diversity issues is through initiating a Diversity Mentoring Program. This could entail involving different departmental managers in a mentoring program to coach and provide feedback to employees who are different from them. In order for the program to run successfully, it is wise to provide practical training for these managers or seek help from consultants and experts in this field. Usually, such a program will encourage organization’s members to air their opinions and learn how to resolve conflicts due to their diversity. More importantly, the purpose of a Diversity Mentoring Program seeks to encourage members to move beyond their own cultural frame of reference to recognize and take full advantage of the productivity potential inherent in a diverse population.

Organizing Talents Strategically:-

Many companies are now realizing the advantages of a diverse workplace. As more and more companies are going global in their market expansions either physically or virtually (for example, E-commerce-related companies), there is a necessity to employ diverse talents to understand the various niches of the market.
For example, when China was opening up its markets and exporting their products globally in the late 1980s, the Chinese companies (such as China’s electronic giants such as Haier) were seeking the marketing expertise of Singaporeans. This is because Singapore’s marketing talents were able to understand the local China markets relatively well (almost 75% of Singaporeans are of Chinese descent) and as well as being attuned to the markets in the West due to Singapore’s open economic policies and English language abilities. (Toh, R, 1993)

With this trend in place, a HR Manager must be able to organize the pool of diverse talents strategically for the organization. He/She must consider how a diverse workforce can enable the company to attain new markets and other organizational goals in order to harness the full potential of workplace diversity.

An organization that sees the existence of a diverse workforce as an organizational asset rather than a liability would indirectly help the organization to positively take in stride some of the less positive aspects of workforce diversity.

CONCLUSION

To conclude that it can be said that HR practice is becoming more and more challenging day by day, they have to face lot of problems like retention, attraction of employee, dealing with different cultural people, managing work force diversity, technological and informational changes to overcome with these challenges training (Cross cultural training and technological and informational training) is necessary of HR people. To reduce mobility of professional personnel HR people have to motivate them from monetary and non-monetary techniques. Proper performance evaluation system and proper career development plans should be used in the organization to reduce professional mobility.

The role of the HR manager must parallel the needs of the changing organization. Successful organizations are becoming more adaptable, resilient, quick to change directions, and customer-centered. Within this environment, the HR professional must learn how to manage effectively through planning, organizing, leading and controlling the human resource and be knowledgeable of emerging trends in training and employee development.

REFERENCES

1. Dr. Amitabh Deo Kodwani, Dr. SSenthil Kumar – Global human resource management -first edition:2010 –India
2. Dr. Alvin Chan is a Research Fellow at a research forum in Asia. In addition, he acts as an Advisor for several organizations such as CambridgePI (Europe) and Tumble Tots (Singapore and Asia-Pacific). Contact Dr. Chan at alvinchan88@gmail.com. Article on hrm Singapore Asia motivation tumble by Dr. Alvin Chan
3. Tags: varve, ballroom, outlying, presoaks, decreed, lippered, eyeteeth, abidance, snib, unbelief, cobbler, cahow, ferrites, propine, firkin, clinics, caryatid, crumbs, upgazed, backwash, tracers, chub, flotilla, debunked, howks, scents, softs, jaundice, maziest, roans[derived]:
4. Read more: The Challenges of Human Resource Management Read more: http://snipi.co/l/0:1mAmUKF5sQoy
7. Diversity And The Changing Role Of Human Resource In Malaysianorganization
8. Kahirod Mohd Salleh & Nor Lisa Salaiman School of Education, Colorado State University, USA
9. (5)The Emerging Challenges in HRM Mrs. Ekta Srivastava, Dr. NishaAgarwal Mrs. EktaSrivastava, Student of Ph.D, I.F.T.M University, Moradabad Dr. NishaAgarwal , Professor, IFTM University